Outreach kit

Fieldwork · Practise AI on real work.

Outreach kit

Version 0.1, 14 October 2026. For a first-time seller approaching estate agencies, letting agencies and property companies in the UK and Nigeria. All messages are drafts for the founder to personalise. Never claim clients, results or partnerships. Say Fieldwork is new. Regulatory notes at the end are general, marked verify, and not legal advice.

1. Ideal customer profile (ICP)

Hypothesis to test, not fact.

ATTRIBUTE	BEST FIT	ACCEPTABLE	AVOID FOR NOW
Type	Independent estate or lettings agency; small property group; property management firm	Developer sales office; serviced-accommodation operator	Portals, large corporates, software vendors (partners instead)
Size	8 to 60 staff, 1 to 5 branches	5 to 8 or 60 to 100	Sole traders (too small for a pilot); over 100 (procurement too slow)
Signs of fit	High listing volume; several negotiators; staff using AI informally; recent hire(s); owner still involved in operations	Owner open to trying new things	Active reorganisation; owner disengaged; heavy dependence on a franchisor's mandated tools
Geography	UK: any region. Nigeria: Lagos and Abuja first [verify market priorities]	Port Harcourt, Ibadan, others	Markets where you cannot serve the language, time zone or payment context
Trigger events	New branch, new software, new starters, regulator or redress-scheme reminders, an error in a listing	Seasonal peak	None obvious

2. Three buyer personas (hypotheses, built from the brand strategy; validate in discovery)

Persona 1: "The owner-director"

- Who: Founder or managing director of an independent agency, 10 to 40 staff.
- Cares about: reputation, consistency, risk, margin, not wasting time on fads.
- Fears: a wrong listing, a data mistake, staff using tools they cannot see.
- Says: "I don't know what my people are putting into these tools."
- We say: "A one-page rule and a method your team follows, with people still deciding."
- Proof they need: a fictional worked example, a small fixed-fee pilot, an easy exit.

Persona 2: "The operations manager"

- Who: Operations, lettings or compliance manager.
- Cares about: procedures followed, quality consistency, onboarding speed, workload.

- Fears: another project with no time; inconsistent output from the team.
- Says: "Everyone writes differently and new starters take months."
- We say: "Workflow cards and checklists that you own, built on your procedures."
- Proof they need: clear scope, hours required from staff, plan for measurement.

Persona 3: "The head of marketing or sales"

- Who: Marketing lead, head of sales or lettings.
- Cares about: listing quality, speed to market, brand voice, lead follow-up.
- Fears: hype, off-brand output, steering or misleading language.
- Says: "We need good descriptions faster, without sounding generic."
- We say: "House briefs that encode your voice and rules, and a check against the facts."
- Proof they need: the listing demo and the not-for-AI list.

3. Building a target list

Method (about 3 hours for 50 accounts):

1. Define a patch. One UK region or city and Lagos or Abuja. Start with 50 accounts per market.
2. Sources (public, lawful):
    - Portal agent directories and the agencies' own websites (UK and Nigeria portals; verify the list before use).
    - Professional body member directories where public: UK (e.g. Propertymark, The Property Ombudsman or redress-scheme members lists, NRLA) and Nigeria (e.g. NIESV, ESVARBON, REDAN) [all verify: availability, terms of use for directory data].
    - Google Maps and LinkedIn Company pages for size and staff.
    - Local business associations and chambers of commerce.
3. Qualify on public signals: staff count (LinkedIn), branches, listing volume, evidence of recent hiring, quality and consistency of listings (without criticising).
4. Find the right person: owner, director or operations manager. One contact per account to start.
5. Record in the CRM (CRM-TEMPLATE.csv): source, date, lawful-basis note (section 9), score.
6. Prioritise: tier A (fits ICP, trigger present), B (fits), C (watch). Contact A first.
7. Cap volume: 10 new contacts a week, personalised. Quality over volume.

Do not scrape personal emails, buy unverified lists without checking their provenance, or use data in ways inconsistent with the terms of the source.

4. LinkedIn connection notes (max about 280 characters; verify LinkedIn's current limit)

1. "Hi [NAME], I'm building practical AI training for estate and lettings teams. I'd value connecting with people running agencies like [AGENCY]. No pitch. [YOUR NAME], Fieldwork."
2. "Hi [NAME], saw [AGENCY] is hiring [ROLE]. I'm working on short AI practice for new negotiators, built around checking, not hype. Happy to connect."
3. "Hi [NAME], I help property teams use AI with clear rules and people deciding. New to this, so I'm after honest feedback from agency owners. Open to connecting?"

4. Nigeria variant: "Hello [NAME], I'm developing practical AI training for Nigerian property firms, designed for free tools and mobile data. Would value connecting with agency leaders in [CITY]."
5. After accepting: "Thanks for connecting. I'm testing a free 15-minute AI exercise and a 5-minute workflow assessment for property teams. If useful, I'll send the link, otherwise no worries."

5. Six cold emails

Each is under 130 words, honest about being new, one clear ask. Replace placeholders. Subject lines in bold. Send from a real address with your name and company details in the signature (section 9).

Email 1: Listings consistency (owner/director)

Subject: Consistent listings across your negotiators

Hi [NAME],

I'm [YOUR NAME] from Fieldwork. We run practical AI training for estate and letting teams, built around the work your staff already do: listings, enquiry replies, procedures.

The rule we teach is "AI drafts, people decide", with a check against the facts every time.

We are new and have no case studies, so I'd rather show you than tell you. Would you give me 20 minutes to run through a fictional listing from start to finish? If it isn't useful, say so and I'll stop.

[YOUR NAME] | [PHONE] | [WEBSITE]

Email 2: Staff already use AI (owner/director, risk angle)

Subject: What your team is pasting into free AI tools

Hi [NAME],

Many agencies find staff are already using AI tools, with no shared rule on what goes in. If that's true at [AGENCY], a short written rule and a few practice sessions on anonymised examples may help.

That's what our pilot does, over four weeks, at a fixed fee, and you can stop any week. We are a new company with no case studies yet, and we don't give legal advice.

There's a free 5-minute assessment at [WEBSITE]/business/assessment that shows where you stand. Want me to send the link?

[YOUR NAME] | [WEBSITE]

Email 3: Assessment offer (low-friction)

Subject: Five minutes: where would AI practice help at [AGENCY]?

Hi [NAME],

We built a free, self-reported workflow assessment for property teams. It asks eight questions about current AI use, rules, workflows and constraints, and gives a first view. It is not an audit and nothing is stored on our side unless you choose to send it. [Founder: confirm this matches what the tool actually does before sending.]

Link: [WEBSITE]/business/assessment

If you share the result I'll be glad to walk through it for 15 minutes.

[YOUR NAME] | Fieldwork

Email 4: New-starter onboarding (operations manager)

Subject: Turning your procedures into checklists new starters use

Hi [NAME],

How long does a new negotiator take to work independently at [AGENCY]? One of the exercises we run turns a real written procedure into a checklist and quick guide, which the procedure's owner then marks for errors.

It's part of a four-week pilot, fixed fee, easy to stop. We're new and have no case studies; I can show a fictional example in 20 minutes.

Is onboarding a priority this quarter, or is something else more pressing?

[YOUR NAME] | [PHONE]

Email 5: Nigeria (owner/director)

Subject: Practical AI training for [CITY] property teams, built for free tools

Hello [NAME],

I'm [YOUR NAME] of Fieldwork. We are developing practical AI training for estate and property firms in Nigeria. It is designed to work on free tool tiers and mobile data, priced in naira, with a clear rule that people decide and AI only drafts.

We are new and do not yet have client case studies. I would value 20 minutes to show a worked, fictional listing example and hear how your team works today.

Could we speak on [DAY], or would WhatsApp be easier? [YOUR NAME] | [WHATSAPP]

Email 6: Breakup / last note (any persona)

Subject: Should I close the file?

Hi [NAME],

I've reached out a couple of times about AI practice for your team. I'll assume the timing isn't right and stop here. If I'm wrong, a reply of "later" is all I need, and I'll come back in [MONTH].

Either way, the free exercise is at [WEBSITE]/learn/first-workflow and takes about 15 minutes.

Best wishes, [YOUR NAME]

6. Three-step follow-up cadence

STEP	WHEN	CHANNEL	MESSAGE
1	Day 0	Email (or LinkedIn note if connected)	Emails 1 to 5
2	Day 4	LinkedIn or WhatsApp (Nigeria)	"Sent you a note on [topic]. Is it useful to see a 20-minute fictional example?" Add one new piece of value, e.g. the assessment link
3	Day 9	Email	Short bump: "One thing I didn't mention: [fact-check table / free exercise]. Worth a call?"
Close	Day 16	Email 6	Breakup. Then stop for 90 days unless they engage

Rules: maximum three touches plus the breakup; stop on any "no" or unsubscribe; log every touch; vary the angle, not just "bumping this".

7. WhatsApp variants (Nigeria; use only where WhatsApp contact is appropriate and permitted, section 9)

1. First message (after a LinkedIn connection or warm intro only): "Hello [NAME], this is [YOUR NAME] from Fieldwork. We train property teams to use AI safely on everyday tasks like listings and enquiry replies. May I send a short example? No obligation. If you'd rather I didn't message you here, tell me and I will stop."
2. Follow-up: "Hello [NAME], following up. Here is a 15-minute free exercise you can do on your phone: [LINK]. Happy to explain how it works for a team."
3. After a call: "Thank you for your time today. As promised: [LINK/ONE-PAGER]. I will call on [DAY] to hear your thoughts."
4. Reschedule: "No problem at all. What time is better for you this week?"
5. Voice-note guidance: keep under 40 seconds; say who you are, why, and the one ask; offer to switch to text.

8. Voicemail script (about 25 seconds)

"Hello [NAME], this is [YOUR NAME] from Fieldwork. We run practical AI training for estate and letting teams. I'm calling because [specific reason, e.g. 'I saw you're hiring negotiators']. We are new, so I'm looking for honest feedback, not a quick sale. I'll send a short email. My number is [PHONE], again [PHONE]. Thank you."

9. Referral ask

To a contact (not yet a client): "I'm not asking you to buy anything. If you know one agency owner who might find a 20-minute walkthrough useful, would you introduce us? If not, no problem." After a good pilot: "If you think it was worthwhile, would you introduce me to one other agency owner? I'll make it easy: a two-line forward-able email. Referral discount of 10% available to the new client." (Pricing: SALES-PRICING-ASSUMPTIONS.md.) Make the intro easy: write a two-line forwardable text: "[NAME] runs short, practical AI training for estate teams. Worth a 20-minute chat? [EMAIL]."

10. Event or webinar idea

"Check the draft": a 45-minute live clinic for estate and letting teams (UK, then a Nigeria edition).

- 10 minutes: the four moves.
- 20 minutes: attendees send in an anonymised, fictional listing fact sheet in advance; run the brief live; the group checks each claim.
- 10 minutes: what stays with people (the not-for-AI list).
- 5 minutes: invite to the free assessment.
- Rules: no real client data; no guarantees; recording only with consent; collect names only with clear consent and a privacy notice.
- Host with an association or a software user group if possible (PARTNERSHIP-PACK.md). Free to attend. Success measure hypotheses: 25 registrants, 10 attendees, 3 follow-up conversations.

11. Compliance notes (general; mark verify; not legal advice)

United Kingdom

- PECR (Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations) governs electronic marketing. As generally understood: unsolicited marketing emails to corporate subscribers (limited companies, LLPs, public bodies) can be sent without prior consent, but you must identify yourself, give a valid contact address and offer a clear way to opt out; marketing to individual subscribers, which can include sole traders and some partnerships, generally needs consent or a soft opt-in. Role-based business addresses (info@) at companies are treated differently from named individuals at sole-trader practices. Verify with the ICO's current guidance or a solicitor before sending.
- UK GDPR and the Data Protection Act 2018 still apply to personal data (names, work emails). You need a lawful basis (legitimate interests is commonly used for B2B prospecting, with a documented balancing test) and a privacy notice that tells people who you are and how to object. Verify.
- Telephone: check the Telephone Preference Service (TPS) and Corporate TPS before cold calls. Verify.
- LinkedIn: follow LinkedIn's terms; do not automate mass messages.
- Always include your company name, address and a simple "reply STOP / unsubscribe" line in cold emails. Keep a suppression list.

Nigeria

- The Nigeria Data Protection Act 2023 applies to personal data processing, including prospect lists, and the Nigeria Data Protection Commission has issued regulations [verify the current instruments]. Consider lawful basis, transparency and individuals' right to object. Verify.
- Direct marketing by SMS, call or WhatsApp may be subject to telecoms rules (NCC) and consumer protection rules, including a Do-Not-Disturb mechanism for SMS [verify: current rules and how they apply to WhatsApp and email]. Verify.

- Business culture often favours warm introductions and calls. Use referrals and association events where possible.

Everywhere

- Do not state or imply clients, partnerships or results that do not exist.
- Record the source and date of every contact; delete on request; honour opt-outs immediately.
- Keep personal data minimal: name, role, company, work email, source.
